

ABOUT TURTLE UP

Turtle Up is about conservation, education, and community transformation. Our mission is to sustainably preserve and conserve Ghana's sea turtles by utilizing a community-based approach. Our vision is a world where marine wildlife and people in coastal communities are thriving together.

Read More

TURTLE UP & EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING AT UD

When UD students learned about Turtle Up, many chose to work with Turtle Up for their various class projects. Communication students rose awareness on Instagram and organized campus wide events. Engineering students in EGR 103 thought through ideas and concepts that could provide jobs while also educating and conserving our sea turtles. Capstone engineering students worked on designing a sea turtle tracker for the Olive Ridley species, and the Stitt Scholars created a Kickstarter campaign so we could produce the tracker. More details can be found here. Additionally, the Flyer Consulting team helped with branding, social media, and fundraising.

ECO TIPS

1. Reduce Plastic Use:

Plastic pollution is a significant threat to sea turtles. Reduce your plastic consumption by using reusable bags, water bottles, and containers. Properly dispose of or recycle plastic products to prevent them from ending up in the ocean.

2. Avoid Balloons:

Balloons and plastic bags can be mistaken for jellyfish by sea turtles, which can lead to ingestion and pose a serious threat to their health. Opt for alternative decorations and use environmentally friendly alternatives.

Find more environmental habits here and learn more about plastic here.

OUR FOUNDER

Dr. Corinne Brion is an assistant professor at the University of Dayton (UD) and an alumna of the University of San Diego where she obtained her PhD in Leadership and received the William Foster Outstanding Dissertation Award for her work in Ghana.

Meet Our Team

TURTLE-LY AWESOME: OUR INTERNS

Jenna Eggleston and Eleanor Keelan have been interning by Turtle Up's side since we began. They are both graphic design students at UD and have found it incredibly fulfilling to create branding, graphics, social posts, newsletters, and merchandise for such a worthy cause.

GET INVOLVED

1. Kickstarter campaign is open until 1/2/24: Click here
2. Other ways to get involved, visit our website and contact us at admin@turtleup.org
3. And follow us on social media here:

